RINEHART'S® RAZORBACK BOAR 3-D TARGET LETS YOU SHARPEN YOUR SKILLS SO YOU CAN BRING HOME THE BACON

When you're hunting the formidable tusked razorback in the field, or just preparing for a competitive event, precision is key. That's why the industry leaders at Rinehart 3D Targets created an incredible life-like Rinehart Boar target, so you can "pig out" and practice your shots.

Weatherproof, resistant to sun, heat and cold and unlike most boars, this little piggy is light-weight, portable and easily stored, which means more shooting time for you! Yet it's a perfect replica of a 100 lb., 24" high and 32" long (from tail to shoulder) boar — so lifelike in color and texture, you'll practically hear the snorts.

What makes Rinehart Targets the best in the industry is its solid Rinehart self-healing foam material. This unique foam can absorb shot after shot from field points, broadheads or expandable tip arrows without tearing. When the shooting is finished, the arrows pull out with ease and the hit marks heal as you walk away — allowing endless practice. This foam is very flexible and won't crack or lose its lifelike shape over the many uses it is manufactured for. Rinehart Targets were even rolled continuously under the wheels of an 18-wheeler during rigorous testing to prove that these targets can take the heat.
