HANDS STAY SAFE AND PRODUCTIVE WITH YOUNGSTOWN'S ERGONOMICALLY DESIGNED ROPEWORK XT™ GLOVES

Engineered for Comfort and Protection for Arborists, Rescue and Rope Access Trade Professionals

Youngstown Glove Company® introduces the new Ropework XT™ glove built specifically for rope work professionals. Understanding that an outstanding and comfortable grip can make all the difference in a job safely and well done, the Ropework XT™ glove employs a litany of technologically-advanced features delivering both comfort and protection whether you saw branches, conduct rope rescues, or perform at-height structural inspections.

Simply put, ergonomics is the science of making things comfy and efficient for the worker. For the Ropework XT™, Youngstown partnered with C.O.R. Ergonomic Solutions, a leader in ergonomic analysis and consulting in the vertical realm to create the best possible pair of gloves for the trade. Together the team built standout features such as the tacky Ropegrip™ palm reinforcement which works to enhance grip all while reducing hand fatigue. Ropegrip™ reinforcement is also used in the saddle between the index and thumb allowing the worker to grasp tightly and securely all with the highest level of dexterity possible.

As part of the XT series, the Ropework XT™ is built extra tough for the most rugged of applications and designed with extra protection in mind. The top of hand is lined with Kevlar® for ultimate cut-resistance protection. Memory foam padding sewn into the palms dampens shock and gives an additional layer of safety. Plus, a heavy-duty grommet allows for easy hang storage to a carabiner.

The field-tested Ropework XT™ also features a terry cloth brow wipe on the thumb for dabbing sweat or debris. A supportive cuff with an adjustable Velcro closure keeps hands safe from outside elements.

Ropework XT gloves are available in sizes small through XX large.
