NEW RINEHART TARGETS® GROUSE 3D TARGET

Challenge Your Archery Skills with Realistic Small-Game 3D Target

Janesville, WI — Rinehart Targets®, creators of the most durable and lifelike targets in the world, is proud to announce it has expanded its Competition Series with the addition of the new Rinehart Grouse Target. Crafted with Rinehart's signature solid self-healing foam along with the most realistic hand-painted details, archers can practice their fast-action bowhunting skills and not only develop a honed shot that'll put dinner on the table, but pinpoint accuracy that'll prove helpful come deer season.

"The new Grouse target features such intricate details to replicate the real bird that it's virtually a work of art," said James McGovern, President of Rinehart Targets. "The outside isn't the only element to impress. Like all of our durable targets in the Competition Series, the Grouse incorporates Rinehart's signature foam, which will take on your toughest shots without breaking or tearing," he added.

Whether you plan to chase the small game bird with a bow or are looking to hone your abilities for the fall season, the new Rinehart Grouse target will help you achieve the accuracy you're seeking. While the new grouse target may be small, it's undeniably mighty thanks to its arrow-stopping, high-density foam construction, a signature feature for Rinehart Targets allowing for years of shooting practice. In addition to being able to take on shot after shot from the fastest-shooting bows, the new Rinehart Grouse is UV resistant so it won't fade, and immune to the nastiest weather Mother Nature can dish out.

Emulating a real-life grouse nestling on a rock in its natural setting, the new Rinehart Grouse target measures 16.5 inches tall and 20 inches long with a simulated weight of 1.5lbs. Not only can the new Rinehart Grouse take on your best shots from both field points and broadheads, removing arrows is a breeze thanks again to the target's signature, self-healing foam construction. No replaceable insert available.

The Rinehart Grouse Target has an MSRP of $106.
