FIELDLINE® TACTICAL OPS DAY PACK America's Finest Outfitter Takes The Tactical Day Pack to the Next Level

Whether you're a tactical operator or an active civilian, if you're looking for an every day carry pack that's made for abuse, look no further than the Fieldline® Tactical Ops Day Pack. Constructed to perform through the toughest missions, this pack will prove to be your best friend during any adventure or survival situation.

The Fieldline Tactical Ops Day Pack measures 18.5 in x 13 in x 7.5 in and features two main compartments. The extra large rear compartment is accessed via the ¾-opening zipper to make searching and accessing the entire contents quick, easy and quiet. Behind the main compartment is a separate pocket to securely stow a two-liter hydration bladder (not included).

Since primitive man gave up slinging a burlap sack over his shoulder, organization has been a key factor in Day Pack design and Fieldline Tactical's Ops Day Pack has one of the best. The interior organizational features in Fieldline Tactical's Ops Day Pack has been compared to models costing 10 times as much, and was designed to easily access everything from flashlights, first aid kits and knives to fire starters, emergency communications and energy bars.

The Fieldline Tactical Ops Day Pack features two zipper mesh compartments within the main pocket to divide or lock down sensitive items as well as those that could rattle or jingle and give away your position. The smaller mesh pocket is ideally sized to secure sunglasses or eye protection for shooting, or even smaller items such as keys. A fleece-lined digital media pouch with headphone port ensures your favorite tunes are always within reach.

Day Packs by their very nature are not designed to carry everything plus the kitchen sink, but tactical gear demands flexibility to go beyond the limits of lesser offerings. Understanding these unique requirements, Fieldline Tactical dressed the entire front of the Ops Day Pack with the MOLLE (modular lightweight load-carrying equipment) locking system. This allows the user to attach MOLLE compatible accessories or lash additional equipment with rope or paracord to customize the load and meet the requirements of any mission with a smaller, more discreet carrying device. The bottom of the pack also includes two bottom straps to lash on a jacket, bedroll or tripod, while the side pockets are ideal to house 20-ounce water bottles.

The best-designed interior is useless unless the pack can be comfortably carried in the field. Fieldline's Ops Day Pack rests comfortably on the shoulders thanks in part to the yoked shoulder strap system with adjustable sternum slider and side compression straps to secure the contents and balance the load. There is also a mesh backing to allow ventilation between your back and the pack for added comfort. Rounding out the Day Pack's features are Velcro name attachments and a choice of black, coyote tan or digital camo.

The Fieldline Tactical series is a sleek new line of high performance gun cases, backpacks and accessories constructed to provide maximum utility for your gear in action.
