THE NEW MICRO SCUBA RETRACTOR™ FROM GEAR KEEPER® ENSURES IMPORTANT DIVING GEAR IS RIGHT WHERE YOU NEED IT

Hammerhead Industries, Inc., known for its popular line of security attachment systems, is proud to present its brand new Gear Keeper RT5 Micro Scuba Retractor™. This ingenious device is a diver's best friend as it's the perfect solution for fastening lobster gauges, safety whistles, knives or slate pencils — ensuring these fundamental pieces of equipment are always readily available and close at hand. Thanks to Gear Keeper®, never again will you lose your diving gear to the depths of the sea, or watch tools float away with the ocean's current.

Designed for the harsh marine environment, the Gear Keeper RT5 Micro Scuba Retractor can withstand extended use in saltwater as it's built to last with a stainless steel spring and hardware, a tough Spectra/Nylon line and an incredible 50-lbs. of break-strength. The new Gear Keeper lets you extend your tool up to 36-inches from wherever you have it clipped to your body. And, when it's no longer needed, the units spring-loaded mechanism automatically retracts the item to its original position. Plus, with a gentle 3-oz. retraction force, the Gear Keeper is specially designed not to pull gear out of wet and slippery hands when in use.

The new Gear Keeper RT5 Micro Scuba Retractor can securely connect gear to its underwater owners via two unique mounting systems: a Snap Clip Mount or an SS Threaded Stud Mount. The Snap Clip conveniently attaches to D-rings and loops, while the SS Threaded-Stud Mount easily attaches to BC webbing or pockets. Plus, a Quick Connect split ring allows for easy removal and re-attachment of gear to the Gear Keeper tether.

With its built-in flushing system, the Gear Keeper RT5 Micro Scuba Retractor can be easily cleared of sand and other debris when operated in water.
