ONTARIO KNIFE COMPANY INTRODUCES THE NEW-FOR-2015 BUSHCRAFT WOODSMAN A MONSTER CHOPPER WITH AWARD WINNING ROOTS

New-for-2015, Ontario Knife Company's OKC® Bushcraft Woodsman is the essential wilderness knife. Every outdoorsman needs a good all around knife that can do everything and the Bushcraft Woodsman is ready to meet that challenge. It is large enough to handle chopping tasks while expertly balanced for general-purpose cutting and other bushcraft tasks. This is the knife you will want strapped to your side when civilization is a far off place.

The OKC Bushcraft Woodsman is the latest in an award winning family of survival knives and tools designed by master survival blade designer Dan Maragni. Its smaller brother, the Bushcraft Field Knife, was recently honored with Field & Stream's "Best of the Best" award for 2014. The Made-in-USA Bushcraft Woodsman continues on this impressive lineage of traditional American craftsmanship and value packed features. Featuring a 9.2" cutting surface with a robust 0.25" blade thickness, the full tang Bushcraft Woodsman is just shy of 15" and is made from 5160 steel with a hardness rating of 53-55 HRC.

"When you hold this knife in your hand you can really feel the blade-forward balance," said Deneb Pirrone, Ontario Knife Company's Director of Global Marketing and Sales. "It is built to chop and baton."

The OKC Bushcraft Woodsman is designed with a bird's head style grip with a large hilt under the blade. The ergonomic American Walnut handle is secured to the blade with blackened fasteners and features a lanyard hole in the pommel for the included paracord lanyard. This is a very comfortable handle that will keep your hand from slipping during hard use. The blade has a high off-center point with a flat-ground edge and a long cutting surface. Designed as a bushcraft and survival system, the knife comes with a fire-starter and striker, over 20 feet of paracord, and a durable nylon sheath by renowned holster manufacturer DeSantis®.
