GEAR KEEPER® MOVES HEADQUARTERS TO LARGER FACILITY

Move Indicative of Leader in Retractable Gear Attachment Systems' Continued Innovation and Growth

Gear Keeper®, the company renowned for creating the most durable and reliable retractable equipment tethers for SCUBA, hunting, fishing and other outdoor activities, has announced it has moved its headquarters to a new and larger location. The new facility, which remains in Ventura, Calif., allows the company to expand its current manufacturing and production capabilities as well as provides for additional warehouse space.

"We are more than excited to make this move to a larger facility," said Gear Keeper President, John Salentine. "The new location will enable us to work more efficiently, ultimately servicing our customers better."

Offering a complete line of products to keep gear safe and at the ready for the likes of hunters, anglers, divers and hikers, all gear is constructed to be highly functional, dependable and robust. Gear Keeper products have been specifically designed to protect gear in severe environments, their tethers boasting extremely high break strengths, and encased in high-impact housings to take a knock or two without issue. Gear Keeper allows you to attach to your person virtually any vital equipment, from cell phones and fishing nets to GPS units or radios.

The original Gear Keeper system was engineered specifically for SCUBA diving literally born out of a need to secure items in situations when hands are otherwise occupied. Gear Keeper systems are now available in more than 3,000 configuration options and used in applications from hunting, fishing and hiking to law enforcement, military and trucking.
