HAWKE® OPTICS REFLEX SIGHT WIDE VIEW IS COMPACT AND ADAPTIVE

The Accurate Reflex Sight Allows for Fast Target Acquisition Across Multiple Platforms

Hawke® Optics, a worldwide leader in precision tactical optics with outstanding performance in the field and optimum value for the consumer, reveals the new Reflex Sight Wide View. This compact sight is ideal for carbines, shotguns, and other platforms requiring a fast, accurate, and lightweight sighting solution.

A quality reflex sight becomes vital in the moments it counts. In any tactical situation, at the range for practice, or shooting competition, shooters demand a sight that is always on point. The Hawke Reflex Sight Wide View is parallax free from 10 yards and is perfect for any firearm. With its fast target acquisition, this compact sight is ideal in any situation.

The optics have a 25-layer, fully multi-coated lens with a red illuminated, 2 MOA circle-dot reticle with eight brightness settings. The 2-inch frame is constructed from aluminum, helping to make the sight incredibly durable and lightweight at just 3oz. This picatinny/Weaver-rail mountable sight has a low profile and is water- and shockproof. To save on battery life, the sight goes into a standby mode if no movement is detected for five minutes, and automatically turns on again when it detects movement. The external battery door allows the battery to be replaced without removing the sight from the gun. The Reflex Sight Wide View comes with a two-year warranty. Learn more at www.hawkeoptics.com.
