

ONTARIO KNIFE COMPANY® INTRODUCES THE OKC WRAITH

OKC Keeps Up the Spirit of Great Folding Knives with the All-New Wraith

Franklinville, NY – With a long history of making excellent knives, the Ontario Knife Company® (OKC®) has put its experience to use in creating a new folding knife in the spirit of the great blades before it – the new-for-2018 OKC Wraith.

“The OKC Wraith is a great quality knife at an incredible price,” said Andrew Yates, VP of Sales and Marketing. “The knife’s slim and lightweight profile makes it seem to disappear in the pocket for an incredibly convenient carry.”

The new OKC Wraith is a modern take on a classic drop-point blade design in a lock-back, folding knife. The Wraith is 6.5 inches overall, with a 2.6-inch blade made from AUS-8 stainless steel that has a 56-58 HRC hardness rating for extreme durability and outstanding edge retention – key points to every OKC knife.

The handle is durable, glass-filled TPE that keeps your hand firmly in place. The blade release is located on the rear of the handle, making it easy to close the blade when you want it shut. The blade is equipped with a thumb-stud for ease of opening. The handle is textured as well, all in an effort to let you make the most of this small, compact knife. It is perfect for multiple uses, such as hiking, camping, hunting and tactical uses – anywhere a compact, durable and sharp knife can be handy.
