BIG GAME HUNTS START WITH BIG PRACTICE SESSIONS

Bring Your Big Game Hunt to the Practice Range with Rinehart's Realistic Line of Big Game Targets

Janesville, WI — Preparation for your big game hunt starts long before that first bugle or when an animal steps into range. It starts with bringing the hunt to your practice range with Rinehart's realistic and durable lineup of American-made 3D Big Game targets. From a scaled-down elk to a larger-than-life moose, Rinehart's Big Game targets give archers plenty of ways to prepare for their hunt of a lifetime.

For hunters dreaming of an elk encounter, the Signature 1/3-Scale Elk transforms big hunt preparation into a manageable backyard footprint. Measuring 38-inches tall and 44-inches in length, the target is anatomically reduced to one-third the size of a simulated 600-pound bull-elk. This means that shots taken at 30 yards simulate a 90-yard shot in the field, giving archers challenging practice without requiring a full-size elk. Got room for a larger setup? Rinehart's Standing Elk brings an elk encounter closer to home. It measures an impressive 93-inches tall and 82-inches in length.

For those headed to mule deer country this season, Rinehart's Signature Mule Deer brings realistic details to the practice range, helping archers dial in their shot placement before their next western hunt. Plus, the Semi-Sneak Mule Deer is as REAL as it gets! Its lifelike pose and sculpted details are unmatched, creating an authentic and exciting archery experience.

Shooters preparing for a moose-sized hunt can take aim at Rinehart's Moose target. It stands 6-feet,10-inches tall and measures 7 feet, 6-inches long, bringing a commanding presence to any range. Want a moose with a smaller set up? Consider the Signature 1/3-Scale Moose, which is an anatomically scaled-down version offering a more compact option.

The Rinehart Big Game 3D target lineup also includes the Bedded Elk, Signature Black Bear, Pronghorn Antelope, Red Stag, Caribou, Buffalo, Lion, and more. With so many options in the line, hunters can select a target that best suits their hunting needs, available space and unique practice setup.

Every Rinehart Big Game target is constructed with the company's industry-leading solid, self-healing foam technology. This enhanced foam is designed to withstand a shooter's toughest shots from field points, broadheads and even crossbow bolts. It also allows for quick and easy arrow removal, self-heals in seconds and is UV and weather-resistant for year-round shooting fun. Plus, a patented replaceable core is available for every Signature or Competition Series Big Game target, allowing hunters to replace the core of the target, further extending its life and allowing hunters to keep shooting season after season.
